DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-15, drawn to a transgenic non-human mammal carrying recombinant loxP-LKB1 or loxP-LKB1 and Cre constructs, classified in class 800, subclass 8.
- II. Claims 16-49, drawn to a cell comprising recombinant loxP-LKB1 or loxP-LKB1 and Cre constructs, classified in class 435, subclass 325.
- III. Claims 50-54, drawn to a method of creating a non-human mammal carrying recombinant loxP-LKB1 or loxP-LKB1 and Cre constructs by introducing recombinant cells into an embryo or by breeding, classified in class 800, subclass 21 and subclass 22.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are patentably distinct because the transgenic can be used as an in vivo model of LKB1 expression while the cells can be used in in vitro assays for compounds that modulate LKB1 pathway activity. The protocols and reagents required to make and use the transgenics are materially distinct and separate than those for the cells. The burden required to search the transgenics and the cells together, each having materially different structures, would be undue.

Inventions I and III are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the transgenics of Invention I can be made by another and materially different process. Transgenics having suppression of expression of the endogenous LKB1 gene can be made using the Cre/LoxP system or by making a traditional, complete knockout mutant because generating an LKB1 knockout induces suppression of expression of LKB1.

Inventions II and III are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the cells of Invention II can be used to study the effects of suppressing LKB1 gene expression, in vitro. Furthermore, the process of invention III can be practiced with cells having suppression of LKB1 expression through a complete knockout of the LKB1 gene and does not necessarily require the cells of Invention II.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
